178 Family Planning Problem in Indonesia

179 The Characteristics of Preeclampsia with Severe Features
There is association of complication in preeclampsia with severe features women with baby, namely preterm delivery. Besides, women's age and parity is related to complication of baby.

183 Heat Shock Protein 70 (HSP 70) Level in Threatened Abortion
Heat Shock Protein 70 can be a marker to predict the risk of miscarriage in the first trimester of pregnancy.

187 Effect of Rectal Misoprostol to Blood Loss at High Risk Pregnancy
Administration of 400 mcg rectal misoprostol after delivering the placenta in high risk pregnancy has significant influence to reduce the amount of blood loss in fourth stage of labor.

190 A Randomized Five-Year Comparative Study of Two Levonorgestrel-Releasing Implant Systems: Norplant® Capsules and Jadexa® Rods
The new two rod levonorgestrel subdermal system [Jadexa®] showed similar efficacy with the old six capsule levonorgestrel subdermal system (Norplant®) in term of birth control. Both implant systems also have similar tolerability profile. Jadexa® is easier to insert and remove than Norplant®.

198 The Outcome on Conservative Surgical Treatment of Adenomyosis
Adenomyosis resection both conservative or Osada’s procedures actually has a better outcome for relieving pain; therefore, some patients can still have a child.

203 Anti-Müllerian Hormone Level in Laparoscopic Cystectomy
The decline in the number of ovarian reserve as described by the reduction of AMH level occurs significantly in both cauterization and suturing technique, which are more dominant reduction in the cauterization group.

208 Comparison of the Levator Hiatal Area
There are significant differences in levator hiatal area during Valsalva and at rest among the groups.

212 Characteristics of Patients with Obstetric and Gynecologic Fistula in Jakarta
The trend of cases is decreasing during the present years (2011-2016). Gynecologic fistula cases caused by iatrogenic are the major problems, but the obstetrics fistula cases decreasing following the labor monitoring is much better nowadays.

218 Perineal Massage during Second Stage of Labor to the Perineal Laceration Degree in Primigravida
Perineal massage during second stage of labor in primigravida can reduce the degree of perineal laceration.

222 A Simple Ultrasound Examination as Diagnostic Tool for Malignant Ovarian Tumor
Simple ultrasound examination can be used to detect malignant ovarian tumor.

227 Efficacy and Safety of Cryotherapy in "See and Treat" Program in Jakarta Primary Health Centre
Cryotherapy is effective to manage the cervical precancerous lesion in "See and Treat" program.

Acknowledgement

Volume 4 — 2016 Index