118 Vitamin D Supplementation to Reduce the Risk of Preeclampsia: Is It True?

Ferry Y Irawan
Junika Indarti
Jakarta

119 Characteristics of Maternal Mortality Cases in a Tertiary Hospital
The characteristics of maternal death in RSCM are prevalent in the group of 25-34 years old with the high school as the educational background. Most of them are multiparity and do not use the long-term contraceptive methods. Preeclampsia is the major cause of maternal death in RSCM.

Sianty Dewi
Ferry
Eddy Toynbee
Sandhy Prayudhana
Jakarta
Tangerang

123 Maternal and Fetal Outcome on Pregnancy in Advanced Maternal Age
Adverse maternal and fetal outcome were higher in AMA as it takes special attention and multi-discipline-approached care started from preconception, antenatal, preparation of delivery, and also postpartum care.

Christian Homenta
John J Wantania
Juneke J Kaeng
Manado

128 Heme Oxygenase1 Level in Normotensive Pregnancy and Preeclampsia with Severe Features
There was the relationship between the level of heme oxygenase-1 (HO-1) and the incidence of preeclampsia with severe features.

Abraham Winarto
Eddy Suparman
John Wantania
Manado

133 Cystatin C Serum Level and the Severity of Preeclampsia
There is a significant association between serum cystatin C level and severity of preeclampsia.

Angga I Suryadi
Kanadi Sumapradja
Jakarta

138 Classic Antiphospholipid and Antiphosphatidylserine Antibody Profile in Suspected Antiphospholipid Antibody Syndrome Patient
All normal pregnant patients do not have any positive classic examination and aPS. Meanwhile, in patients with suspected aPS, less than 20% patients show positive result of aPS with negative result in classic laboratory examination.

Asriyanti Amsir
Andi M Tahir
Nusratuddin Abdullah
Makassar

142 The Level of Ca 125 in Pre and Post operative of Endometriosis
Level of Ca 125 will decrease after endometriosis surgery. There is a strong correlation between preoperative level of Ca-125 and endometriosis stage. The severity of dysmenorrhea has the correlation to the stage of endometriosis.

Elisia
Tyas Priyatmi
Jakarta

147 Incidence of Post Operative Urinary Retention after Pelvic Organ Prolapse Reconstruction
The incidence of post-operative urinary retention after pelvic organ prolapse reconstruction is quite high. Reconstruction duration and type of reconstruction are associated with urinary retention.

Renny Pratiwi
Eddy Suparman
Rudy A Lengkong
Manado

153 The Prevalence and Risk Factors of Stress Urinary Incontinence in Postpartum
There is a relationship between stress urinary incontinence with women aging 35 years old and multiple parities.

Lailla Nuranna
Sulaeman Baid
Gatot Purwoto
Harlyono Winarto
Kartiwa H Nuryanto
Jakarta

158 Papsmear Examination for Diagnosing Pre Cancer Lesion in Invisible Squamous Columnar Junction
Almost half of visible SCJ was found in menopausal women group. Most of positive AVI result was found in the non-menopausal women group. All women with the invisible SCJ have a normal Papsmear result.

Wesley Yeremia
Max Rarung
Bismarck J Laihad
Manado

164 Postradical Hysterectomy Survival Rate in Early Stage Cervical Cancer Patients
The survival rate of early stage cervical cancer after radical hysterectomy in Manado is quite high.

Risma Maharani
Syahrul Raof
Rina Masadah
Makassar

170 Phosphatase Regenerating Liver3 and E Cadherin Expression in Epithelial Ovarian Cancer
PRL-3 overexpression does not decrease E-cadherin expression in epithelial ovarian cancer.